Printed Carrier Bags have Never been so affordable

Sun Plastics have recently secured a fantastic deal with our factories in the UK, for manufacture of bespoke printed carrier bags, with minimum order quantities of just 1,000 bags.

Typically, customers have always been put off by the stipulation that a minimum order of 5,000 bags would be required for a bespoke job. For small business and start-ups, this would mean a costly and risky venture.

Now the availability of low MOQ's (minimum order quantities) means that customers with smaller budgets and less storage space, can take advantage of the prices normally reserved for pallet quantities.

Sun Plastics Managing Director, Kevin Wells commented: "This news is a great excuse for customers to 'test the water' with a new venture, or new design, to gauge demand, before ordering more. Customers always comment to me how they struggle to use 5000 or 10000 of the Biothene bags before they start to degrade, this way there's no danger of that happening."
